Autos Plunge Into Crowded Street

A freakish accident occurred in an uptown New York street, just off Broadway, when two automobiles tumbled out of a second story window of a garage. Passing crowds returning from theaters narrowly escaped death when a mechanic tried to move one machine and it rammed into another so hard that both were propelled through the windows. Picture shows the first machine overturned and the second lying on its side.

"Girl Bandit"—A Man Has Two Natures

CHICAGO, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The alleged smiling slayer of Richard C. Tesmer, wealthy Chicago insurance man, is in jail today—not the blue-eyed girl bandit, whom the police expected to find, but a man who for 15 years has been living the dual role of man and woman. In all of that time he was the legal "wife" of the man in whose home he was arrested yesterday, although there was nothing to indicate that the husband had been deceived by the masquerade. Attired in one of his feminine costumes, his hennaed hair showing wisps of the fashion's bobbed hair under the latest millinery creation, he was taken before Mrs. Tesmer, even before the identity of his sex was established.

The widow, who has scrutinized scores of suspects, said without faltering that he was the person, dressed as a woman, who shot her husband down after robbing them of a small amount of money with the aid of a male companion. "That sardonic grin, that satanic smile," she said, "I would know anywhere."

The police had ordered the man to submit to a Mrs. Tesmer in attempting to identify him.

Later at police headquarters where detectives questioned him in connection with the slaying, a stable of board began gradually to appear through the layers of powder and rouge on the prisoner's face. The authentic were frankly puzzled until the man defiantly stated in a high falsetto voice that he had two natures and had made use of them.

Police surgeons who were called, pronounced him a man.

The suspect, who calls himself Paul G. Thompson and Mrs. Frank Tesmer, denied all knowledge of the slaying and said he was able to go on an allibi. He said he was born in Cleveland, Ohio, early became a vagabond and came to Chicago as a "sway boy."

And a feminine streak in me did not shake off even as a kid, he said.

Mob Dispersed By Soldiers

SAVANNAH, GA., June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—One man was killed and an unknown number wounded early today when a crowd of more than 2,000 persons assembled about the jail, where Walter Lee, negro youth, charged with an attack upon a white woman, is guarded. State guardsmen mounted machine guns and firing their rifles in the air, crowded the mob after appeals of officers and streams of water from high pressure fire hose had failed to disperse the mob.

The mob formed at midnight when word spread that Lee was being held in the city jail. Sheriff Merritt W. Dixon, failing to disperse the mob, had city firemen turn water on them. The crowd retaliated by hurling bricks.

Meanwhile a detachment of machine gunners took up positions and pushed the crowd back two squares from the jail. Shortly afterward it dispersed.

Many Arrested
SAVANNAH, GA., June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Forty-nine persons were arrested here today in connection with an attempt to lynch Walter Lee, negro, during which one man was killed and several injured. Savannah was quiet today, although soldiers with fixed bayonets, patrolled the jail where Lee, charged with assault, was held.

CATANIA, ITALY, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Some of the latest reports from the countryside stricken by Mount Etna's eruption give rise to the hope that the fury of the mountain may have passed its period of greatest activity. However, the situation is generally regarded here as being practically unchanged, with the mighty stream of lava bearing slowly but inevitably upon Linguaglossa.

During the night the mouth of the crater was enlarged by a renewal of the terrible convulsions and its lips, slipping into the seething interior, were hurled to the skies, tumbling down the sides of the mountain, with a tremendous clatter.

Rum On Board For Trafficking Given As Reason For Detention American Ships Held By Russia

NOME, ALASKA, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Liquor aboard for trafficking was a factor in the detention of four American trading schooners at East Cape, Siberia, by the Russian soviet government, according to information received here today.

In the opinion of masters of two American trading schooners, returned here, their fate, had they attempted to traffic along the Siberian coast, would have been the same, as that of the four detained at East Cape while their crews are under arrest, and forbidden communication with their home country except through soviet censorship.

Harding Starts On Long Trip To Alaska

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding today was on the way toward realization of the one of the hopes he held ever since he entered the White House nearly two and one-half years ago. The president has looked forward practically ever since March 4, 1921, to the time when he could leave the capital long enough to visit the vast territory of Alaska, and there study at first hand the problems which he feels are still lacking the solution the will make for proper development of the territory.

Approximately a third of the president's trip will be made by rail. The next two weeks, however, are to be spent almost altogether on the train as the presidential party will not embark for Alaska until Thursday July 5, at Tacoma, Wash.

The first scheduled stop of the presidential special is at St. Louis late tomorrow, with a seven hour visit planned and with the first of the president's formal addresses there tomorrow night. It was considered more than probable however, when the train left here today, that the president would open the speaking portion of the trip with one or more rear platform speeches before arriving in St. Louis.

Slavery And Human Sacrifices In Burma

RANGOON, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Slavery and human sacrifices are still going on in some of the mountain districts of Northern Burma, according to the annual report of the commissioner of the northeastern frontier, published by the government here. Attempts by the government to eradicate these practices have not yet entirely succeeded. The redemption of slaves intended for sacrifice has only resulted in the use of money saved for a bigger and more expensive sacrifice later on.

By a recent government investigation it was found that the number of human sacrifices in the Nagas Hills is never less than from six to ten a year. Sometimes when funds are plentiful the number in a year amounts to twenty or thirty. The most common victims are in Diachan, both boys and girls kidnapped from Assam, although any kind of available slaves be included in the slaughter. One girl who already had been marked for sacrifice by the Nagas, was recently released through government action.

Four Priests Wounded In Shot Gun Attack

POCAHONTAS, ARK., June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Four priests and a lay official of the Engleberg Catholic Church near here, were wounded in a mysterious shot gun attack on the home of one of the priests Monday night after a church conference was concluded with a social affair.

Burton Knott, 20, of the Engleberg neighborhood, is in jail here. Joe Bruner, lay official of the Engleberg church, and the most severely wounded of the five, is in a hospital. A veritable fusillade of shots splintered the house, entering the window and striking the men who were gathered around a table checking reports received in the church conference.

The injured are: Father Straussner, of Jonesboro, shot in neck and shoulder. Father Hefflinger, Paragould, shot in neck. Father Herringer, Engleberg, flesh wound. Father Froitzheim, Pocahontas, shot in legs. Joe Bruner, lay church official, shot in back.

Three youths, Burton Knott, Henry Daniels and his younger brother were arrested.

Bruner was the most severely wounded. Nineteen shots struck him in the back and his condition was regarded as serious today. The priests and Bruner were gathered around a table checking some reports when the firing began.

The attack followed a church conference which terminated a church social. Some disturbance having arisen among the young men, Deputy Sheriff W. P. Daniel attempted to suppress it, but was struck in the face with a piece of ice which cut a gash in his cheek. A number of young men then are said to have left the social.

The discharge of pistols was heard soon thereafter, but no one was injured. It was some time afterward that the attack on the house took place.

Test Of Liquor Case

SOUTHAMPTON, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The White Star Liner Olympic is making her present trip to New York, the occasion of an attempt to solve the ship liquor problem. The liner sailed today with wine stocks aboard for her return journey placed in a special store room with four seals of the British customs service on the door.

The seals are encased in brass boxes which in turn are locked. The intention of the White Star Line is to keep the stocks under seal all the time the ship is in American waters. If the American authorities do not break the seals and confiscate the stocks the ship's officials will open the store after the vessel has passed the three-mile limit on her return voyage.

The Olympic is the first vessel to adopt this procedure.

Mopping Up Of Island Rum Runners Is Planned

NEW YORK, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Stern measures to crush rum runners using Long Island as a base of operations, were planned today by federal prohibition authorities. The "mopping up" was decided on after reports of two pitched battles in which Deputy Sheriffs and police exchanged shots with gangs were received yesterday by officials.

Sheriff A. M. Biggs, of Suffolk county, yesterday told of an encounter at Greenport between eight deputy sheriffs and some fifty or sixty rum runners and New York gun men in which the deputies were forced to seek cover while a fleet of trucks dashed to New York with nearly six hundred cases of liquor.

It is stated by the reviewers that the book is mild.

Little Girl Hit By Truck

Little Miss Beulah Sparks, seven years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sparks of 833 Eighth street, suffered a badly bruised forehead and right cheek, when she was knocked down at ten o'clock this morning in front of her home by the Werner grocery truck driven by Earl Wilson who lives on Tenth street.

The child had been standing on the rear of an ice wagon with a companion. When the two children jumped from the platform, the Sparks girl jumped in front of the truck. Before she had touched the street, however, the left wheel of the machine struck her, knocking her to the ground. She was not rendered unconscious.

Wilson stopped immediately, taking the child to her home. Dr. George Martin was called. He dressed the wounds, pronouncing them of no serious nature.

Protest Sent To Highway Department On Paving Work On The Gallia Pike

A. W. Abele, secretary of the Iron-ton Automobile Club has written a letter to the State Highway Department complaining about the slow progress being made on the paving of the Gallia pike east of Franklin Furnace.

Relative to Mr. Abele's letter the Iron-ton Register editorially yesterday said:

The letter of protest sent the state highway department by A. W. Abele, secretary of the Iron-ton Automobile club, had exactly the right ring. We have never seen anything so inexcusable as the delay on that piece of road in Scioto county and long ago the state highway department would have been justified in taking the work away from the contractor. Even now the work is progressing so slowly that it is impossible to tell the progress from week to week. Just how long Scioto county and the state will stand for this kind of monkey business is a pure guess but if that work was being done in Lawrence county someone would be on the carpet before night. At the rate the work is progressing the road will not be open to travel before late fall.

Gompers Urges Farmers To Organize

CHICAGO, June 20.—(By the United Press)—"Farmers' Union," organized like the labor unions of the country is the only hope of the American farmer in his fight for a square deal, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor told the National Wheat Conference here today. The conference, attended by 500 representatives of farmers, millers and grain dealers, bankers and transportation interests, was called by governors of seven states to increase the price of wheat.

"If the farming interests of America can devise no sounder methods of maintaining their proper place in the economic scheme of things, than a resort to legislative sure-alls they are inevitably doomed to disappointments. I see no reason why farmers need to expect hope from anything but the old-fashioned way of organizing and fighting for their rights," said Gompers.

"If the wage earners of our country had not the sense and courage to organize, nobody would have much sympathy for them and nobody would take their complaints very seriously," he said.

Gompers cited former attempts of labor to bust the trusts through political campaigns and warned the farming interests there was no hope in such a course.

"The road to a square deal," Gompers declared, "is not through congress or state legislatures, but through organization."

"There is force in our social organization that will not come to the council table with the farmer when the farmer finds the way to organize and combine their strength."

A sensation was sprung at the conference when John R. Mauss, executive president of Chicago board of trade, threatened suit against Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, for alleged defamation of character of the 1,508 members of the board. Capper termed the Chicago Board of Trade, "The world's greatest gambling place," and charged that "every wheat grower had been victimized by vicious short selling at the hands of manipulators who had virtually been in control of the Chicago Board of Trade."

Mauss jumped to his feet in protest when Capper finished.

"This matter will be brought to the attention of our attorney and a meeting of board of directors will be called to decide whether the statement of Senator Capper is actionable and whether we can bring suit against Senator Capper for defamation of character of the 1,508 members of the board," Mauss said.

Introduce Axe To The Hen Not Laying In June Advice To Scioto Co. Farmers

Washington Bureau
Portsmouth Times
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—Introduce the axe to the hen that is not laying in June.

That is the advice that is passed along to Scioto county farmers and poultry raisers by the United States Department of Agriculture, in suggestions for pruning flocks advantageously that have just been issued here.

The hen that is not laying in June, when the price of eggs is comparatively low, is not likely to be laying eggs in October or in any of the winter months, when eggs are eggs, and should be a source of substantial profit to chicken raisers.

Therefore, say the federal experts, hens in Scioto county will not be worth a cent more to their owners in the fall and winter than they are worth today.

Besides that, and this, the government says, is the important consideration, they will have consumed a great quantity of food that must be charged to profit and loss, for there will be practically no egg return to offset it.

Scioto county farmers and all others who keep chickens either for pleasure or profit will be putting money in bank if they will carefully cull their flocks at this time and cull out every hen that is not worth her keep. She is fit, according to government studies, only for the pot or for the market.

Instructions for picking out the dead-wood are given by federal agents that should make it comparatively easy for owners of hens to make intelligent culling.

As a general rule, the hen that is spic and span at this time has been slacking during the egg producing season, and is idling her time away in a wasteful search for food and relaxation.

On the other hand, the hen that is the worse for wear, whose feathers are seedy and disheveled, has been putting eggs in the nest and money in her owner's pocket. All things being equal, she should be kept and rewarded. Shortly, she'll be going into moult, and he getting ready to resume the egg-grind when prices are soaring near the top.

The hen whose shanks and earlobes are yellow at this time is not laying and has never been doing her duty. The egg producer's shanks will have a washed-out appearance, being almost white. The pigmentation has gone into egg yolk, where it was intended by nature that it should go. If the color has been retained by the hen, it is all the evidence any farmer needs to justify him in disposing of the chicken, says the government experts.

Allying these visual tests to the flock, farmers and others should readily be able to cull out the worst offenders. There are, of course, various other tests to determine the productive capacity of hens that are enumerated by the government. Farmers as a rule, however, have neither the time nor the inclination to do culling down to the fine points, practiced by specializing poultrymen. It will pay them to do so, according to government investigators.

The laying hen has a clear eye and a well shaped head. Get rid of the hen that has what is called a "crow's head," that is to say, a head resembling that of a crow.

The producer's body is well set up, with long back and well-developed breast. The keel should be almost square. The comb and wattles should be red, soft and pliable.

Between the breast bone and the egg bones, or pelvis, there should be space for at least three fingers. The abdomen should be soft and pliable.

There should be an expanse of at least an inch between the egg bones. The greater this distance the more egg production, all other conditions being equal.

These are general rules that every farmer may follow without serious neglect of his other June duties, says the government, and there should be followed if the best returns from the poultry yard are expected.

It is human nature, these experts point out, to have a prejudice against the hard-looking chicken, and as a rule, she is the first one to go to the chopping block. This is ill-reward for faithful service, every broken feather being a badge of honorable service in behalf of the master or mistress.

In other words, fine feathers do not make fine egg producers, as the government has established in many tests.

A fully developed hen that is not laying during this period will never be worth more to its owner than it will command in the market, and that is where she belongs, both from the standpoint of efficiency and in justice to hens that are carrying on.

Government forecasts are to the effect that eggs next fall will bring record prices, and every farmer and chicken raiser in Scioto county should be getting ready to share in this anticipated harvest. A small number of producing hens is infinitely more profitable than a large flock of lazy, good-for-nothing hens that cackle and eat food, and consider their duty done.

Careful calculations, compiled by poultrymen disclose that the bulk of the profit in poultry raising is in the disposition of old stock. In other words, egg production should maintain the flocks and meet overhead expenses, while the body of the fowl should represent profit. It will, if proper care is taken in culling flocks, now and during the entire year.

DRY OFFICER GUILTY OF ASSAULT

The Cincinnati Post says: After deliberating 2 1/2 hours Tuesday, a jury of eight women and four men in Judge Edward T. Dixon's Criminal Court returned a verdict of guilty in the case of William Parrott, prohibition officer of Newtown, O., charged with assault and battery.

Parrott, it was alleged, kicked Mrs. Anna Schroeder, 1043 Wade street, when he and other officers entered her home Jan. 13 to serve a warrant. Parrott denied the charge.

Parrott, it is well known here as he formerly operated in this section.

New City Engineer Arrives

Edward J. Holmes, the new city engineer recently engaged by city council to take the place made vacant by the resignation of George S. Wilhelm, has arrived in the city and has taken up his work of reorganizing the engineering department. His selection for the position was in recognition of the splendid record he established during his employment by the city of Cincinnati where he was assistant engineer for five years and prior to that was attached to the park board.

Mr. Holmes is a resident of Mount Washington where he owns his home and he will not move his family to Portsmouth, at least for the present.

E. H. McMillen, who was assistant engineer, under the Wilhelm regime, will be retained by the new engineer in that capacity. It was announced today.

POSTMISTRESS AT WESTERVILLE FILES CHARGES AGAINST THREE SUBORDINATES

Washington Bureau, Portsmouth Times
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—A "tempest in a teapot" not connected with prohibition, centers around the postoffice at Westerville, Ohio, national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League, where Postmistress Mary E. Lee has filed charges against three of her subordinates, it was revealed here today.

Mrs. Lee, who is a personal friend of President Harding, was appointed postmistress at the league stronghold soon after the present administration took office. Reports have been received at the Postmaster General's office frequently that all was not running smoothly in the Westerville office, due to lack of harmony between Mrs. Lee and her co-workers.

She has made charges of insubordination against Assistant Postmaster S. R. Natzger, Superintendent of Mails H. M. Gray, and Clerk F. A. Fravel, demanding that they be removed from the postal service.

All three of the defendants were warmly endorsed in a letter received today by Senator Simon D. Fess from the Business Men's Association of Westerville, which asserted that if any removals were made, Postmistress Lee should be the first to go. They described her charges against Natzger, Gray and Fravel as "personal persecution."

The Westerville office is the most important of the smaller Ohio postal stations because of the huge volume of second class matter sent out by the Anti-Saloon League. The postmaster receives a salary of $2,000.

Postal officials stated today that they were investigating the charges brought against the three men by Mrs. Lee.

Harding Sells Control Of Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding has disposed of his control of the stock of the Marion Publishing Company, publishers of the Marion Star, to Louis H. Brush and Roy D. Moore.

The sale, however, did not constitute a complete severance of Mr. Harding's connection with the newspaper, whose editor he was for so many years. It was announced at the White House that he would retain some stock in the company and would continue to be associated with the Star in an editorial capacity.

The purchasers of the controlling interest in the Star also have bought the Marion Tribune, another afternoon paper in the president's hometown and for the present will continue publication of them both. Purchase was announced in this official statement given out at the White House.

"Contracts have been closed whereby President Harding disposes of his control of the stock of the Marion Publishing Company to Mr. Louis H. Brush and Roy D. Moore. Mr. Brush is a resident of Salem, Ohio, where he directs the publication of the Salem News and the two newspapers at East Liverpool.

"The same interests have bought the entire property of the Marion Tribune and will continue its publication. Mr. Moore assuming personal charge and directing its policy, in addition to assuming the business direction of both properties.

"The staff of the Star will remain unchanged under the new control. President Harding will continue as a stockholder with editorial association and it is part of the agreement that the Star shall go forward along the lines which have made for its success.

"President Harding has let it be known that he deeply regrets the release of majority ownership in the newspaper property which he acquired 30 years ago, but he is certain of its firm establishment and sure it will carry on under the new control, working with his associates of many years, who have so successfully and progressively carried on the work since his public duties have taken him from Marion.

"The property of the two papers will undergo a corporate reorganization as early as is feasible, but the career of the Star will be marked by no material change and plans for the tribune are designed to enlist popular approval. The issue of a morning paper is in contemplation so that Marion shall have full metropolitan advantages in morning newspaper service."

Claims Statues Are Spurious

PARIS, June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Nine shops in which works of art were made in the United States were described by Jean Vigoroux, who testified yesterday at a magistrate's hearing on Vigoroux's charges that various sculptures in the Louvre and in prominent American museums are spurious.

The "Metropolitan Museum of Art" in New York and the Venetian Palace of Mrs. John L. Gardner, in Boston, were specifically mentioned by Vigoroux as containing spurious statues of the Virgin and the Child.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair be careful what you use. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure and ask for "Mulsified." Advertisement.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

ALPHABET TOWN

A handsome letter A came up and said, "How do you do?"

The next place the Choo-Choo Train came to in Choo-Choo Land was Alphabet Town.

"What a funny name," said Nancy, as she and Nick jumped off the little train.

No sooner were the words out of her mouth than a handsome letter A came up and said, "How do you do?"

"My goodness," cried Nancy. "I never knew that letters came alive."

"Oh, didn't you?" remarked Mister A. "Well, we do; there is one alive letter of each kind here from A to Z. We all live together very happily in Alphabet Town. I am the leader and everybody does as I tell them."

"Come over and I will introduce you to P and Q. They are my policemen, and make all the other letters mind."

Nick laughed. "I've heard of mind-your-P's and Q's," said he. "Now I know what it means."

The astonished Twins went across the street with Mister A to the place the policemen letters were.

"There they come again!" said the policemen letters when they had said, "How do you do?" to Nancy and Nick. "We can't keep those two letters apart, and we don't think they ought to go together. They don't sound very nice."

"What letters?" asked Nancy. But just then she saw two letters coming toward them linked arm in arm.

They said "O G."

"Oh, gee!" repeated Nick. "I say that all the time but I'm not allowed."

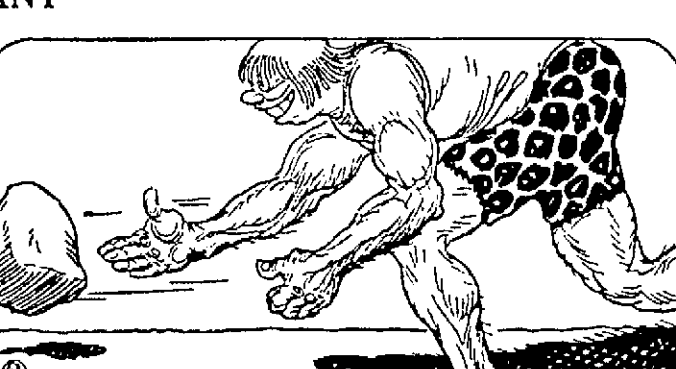

"Well, I should hope not," remarked Mister A in a shocked voice.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE BADGIANT

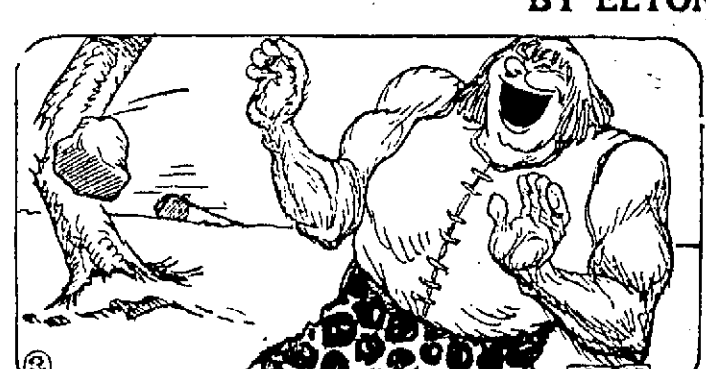

"Hello there, Cuck," shouted one of the good giants. "Do you want to join us in our game?" And then all of the good giants stopped bowling while Cucumber took Jack up and introduced him. "Well," said a giant, to Jack, "you look like a strong boy. See if you can roll a boulder."

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE BADGIANT

Jack tried as hard as he could to do as the giant suggested, but he couldn't even budge the huge rock. All of the giants laughed as they watched him struggle. Then one of them shouted, "Wait, now, and I'll show you how." Then he picked up a boulder and sent it skipping along the ground rapidly.

Into the trees went the rock and one of them toppled over just like the bowling pins Jack had often played with at home. "See how easy it is," laughed the giant. "Sure," replied Jack, "it's easy for you, but no little person could do it." "Oh, yes, a little person could," replied the giant. (Continued.)

Calvin Gray, hater of Colonel Henry Nelson, banker, Gray is in love with Barbara Parker and Nelson tells her father, Tom Parker, that Gray has been dishonorably discharged from the army. Gray and his friend, Gus Briskow, buy the controlling interest in Nelson's bank. At a meeting of the bank's directors, Gray declares that he was discharged from the army through the treachery of Henry Nelson and that later, having been found out, Nelson also was dismissed. Gray forces Nelson to admit the truth. But Briskow, Gray calls to propose marriage to Barbara.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
"Finest in the world! I claim responsibility for him, in a way. He's part mine," Gray laughed; his eyes sparkled.

"Jim and Bob are out there together. They've been together a lot, Mr. Gray. Both of 'em young, that way."

"Of course, I knew you'd both like—," Some quality in Tom's voice, some reluctant evasiveness to his eyes, bore a belated message to the younger man—snapped his chain of thought—dried the words upon his lips. Into his eyes leaped a sudden, strained incredulity. Sharply, he cried, "What do you mean?"

Then, after an instant, "Why did he want to see me?" The two men gazed squarely at each other for the first time. "My God! Why—that's absurd! I—I brought him here. He's just a boy!"

"I didn't notice how things were going till it was too late. We might as well talk frankly, Mr. Gray. Probably it's well you saw me first, eh? Well, when I understood where they was heading, I worried a lot—after what you said that day, understand? But those two! Phaw! It was like they had known each other always."

"Then they've settled it between them?"
Tom nodded gravely. "She told me last night. And from the way she told me, I know it's not just boy and girl love. She's been singing like a bird all day. And Buddy! He's breathless. I know how he feels. I couldn't draw a full breath for two weeks after Bob's mother—"

Gray uttered a wordless, gasping cry. He moved unsteadily toward the door, then paused with his hand upon the knob. Tom Parker was surprised when, after a moment, he saw the man's shoulders shake and heard him utter a thin, cackling laugh. "Time is a grim old joker, isn't he? No way of beating him, none at all. Now I thought I was young, but—," Lucky I found you here and speed my vanity."

Ma Says a Prayer
CALVIN GRAY did not return to the bank. He went straight to his hotel and, as soon as he could sufficiently control himself to do so, he telephoned Gus Briskow, telling him that he intended to leave town. Then he began mechanically to pack his bag. He moved like a man in a trance for the blow had fallen so suddenly as to numb him; his only impulse was to escape, to hide himself from these people who, of a sudden, had become hateful.

When night came he took his bag and slunk out of the hotel, for it seemed that men must surely know what a fool he had made of himself. It would have been a relief to feel that he was leaving never to return; but even that was denied him, for, after his first panic, the truth had come home. He could not run away.

He thought of Ma Briskow, finally. He was human; she had a heart. He bought a ticket to Dulles. Ma Briskow's eyes were dim; nevertheless, she saw the change in Calvin Gray when, late the following afternoon, he came to see her. "Land sakes!" she exclaimed, in a shocked voice. "Pa never said you was ill. Why, Mr. Gray?"

"I'm not really ill," he told her, wearily. "Just old. I've had a bad night."

Seating himself beside her couch, he took her hand in his and made her tell him all about herself. He had brought her an armful of flowers, as usual, and an armful of gifts for her adornment—giving, it seemed, was his unconscious habit. While she admired them with ecstasies "Oh!" and "Ahs!" he busied himself with bowls and vases, but Ma noted his fumbling uncertainty of touch and evident effort with which he kept up his assumption of good cheer. She told him, finally:

"Something mighty bad has happened to you, Mr. Gray."

He gazed at her mutely, then nodded. "Is it something about the—Princess of Wichita Falls?"

"Yes, Ma."

There was a long silence, then Ma inquired: "Would you like to tell me something about the little princess? Sometimes it helps to talk."

"Not yet."

"Won't you stay an' have supper with Allie an' me? We're awful lonesome with Pa gone. Allie's out somers, but—it would do me good to know you was here an' I'll do you good to stay. You can rest yourself while I take my nap."

Ma Briskow did not wish to take a nap, but she knew that Gray needed the solace of his own thoughts

Penbrook Resident Tells About Her Remark- able Recovery

MRS. ANNIE PAGE

Mrs. Annie Page, highly esteemed resident of 3228 Main street, Penbrook, Pa., is another who is enjoying splendid health as a result of the Tanlac treatment.

"What Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. Page, "is too wonderful for words to express. For six or seven years I had been troubled with rheumatism in my wrists. I couldn't even wash the dishes, or peel the potatoes, and, in fact, my arms were just about useless."

"My health was also bad otherwise. My stomach was all out of order. I couldn't get a good night's sleep and often had dizzy headaches. I had just about given up hope of ever getting well."

"But Tanlac helped me from the start and now I haven't a rheumatic pain or an ailment of any kind. I eat and sleep like a child, and while I am 63, I don't feel a bit over 40. Nothing is too good to say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

his eyes and lay back in an easy chair while the twilight stole in upon him.

He heard Allie enter the house, but he did not stir. He would have to put on the mask soon enough, for, of course, she must never suspect, on Buddy's account, the room, which had grown agreeably dark, was suddenly illuminated, and he hunched to his feet to find the girl facing him from the door. She was neither startled nor surprised at his presence, and when he tried to smile and to greet her in his accustomed manner, she interrupted him by saying:

"Allie placed her hand upon his forehead and held it there for a moment before she moved away. It was a cool and tranquillizing palm and he wished she would hold it there for a long time, so that he could sleep, forget—"

Allie Briskow went to her room, and there she studied her reflection in the mirror carefully, deliberately, before saying: "You can do it. You're got to do it, for he's hurt. When a girl is hurt like that, it makes a woman of her, but when a man's hurt it makes him a little boy. I—I guess it pays to keep on praying."

It was perhaps a half hour later that Ma Briskow heard a sound that caused her to rise upon her elbow and listen with astonishment. It was the sound of low, indistinct, but joyous singing; it came from Allie's room. Allie singing again! What could have happened? Slowly Ma's face became wistful, eager.

"Oh, Miss Daisy King!" she whispered. "Please build up his castle again. You can do it. There's magic in the world. Make him a duke again, an' her a queen, for yours is the power an' the glory for ever an' ever. Amen!"

It possible now, for the first time, to relax a bit physically, so he closed "I knew you were here."

"So? Then Ma is awake again?" Allie shook her head vaguely. "I knew you were here the minute I came in. I can move at 75 tell."

There had been a shadow of a smile upon her lips, but it vanished; a look of growing concern crept over her face. "What's the matter? Whatever has happened, Mr. Gray?"

"Why, nothing. I was feeling tired, worn out. Indulging myself in a thoroughly enjoyable feast of the blues." His voice broke when he tried to laugh.

Allie uttered a quick, low cry, a wordless, sympathetic sound. Her dark eyes widened, grew darker; she came forward a step or two, then she halted. "Would you rather be alone?" she asked. He signified his dissent, and she went on: "I know what the blues are like. I sit alone in the dark a good deal."

She busied herself about the room for a few moments, straightening things, adjusting the window shades. Allie had the knack of silence, blessed attribute in man or woman, and to Gray's surprise he found that her mere presence was comforting.

She startled him by saying, suddenly: "You're hurt! Hurt badly!"

He looked up at her with an instinctive denial upon his lips, but, realizing the futility of deceit, he nodded. "Yes, Allie."

The girl drew a deep breath, her strong hands closed, harshly she said: "I could kill anybody that hurt you. I wanted to kill Buddy that time. Is it those Nelsens? Have they got you down?"

Something fierce, and masterful in Allie's concern, and her inquiry carried with it even more than a proffer of help; she had, in fact, thrust herself in a protective attitude. She suggested nothing so much as a loneliness roused.

"No, no! It is nothing like that. I merely fooled myself—had a dream. You wouldn't understand, my dear."

Allie studied him soberly for a moment. "Oh, yes, I would! I do! I understand perfectly. Nobody could understand as well as I do?"

"What do you mean by that?" "I've been hurt, too." She laid a hand upon his breast. "That's why I sit in the dark."

"My dear child! I'm sorry. Gray said you were unhappy, but I thought it was merely—the new life. You're young; you can forget. It's only us old ones who can't forget. Sometime you must tell me all about it."

The girl smiled faintly, but he nodded, positively: "Oh, it's a relief to tell somebody; I feel better already for confiding in Ma. Yes, and your sympathy is mighty soothing, too. It seems almost as if I had come home."

He closed his eyes and laid his head back.

Allie placed her hand upon his forehead and held it there for a moment before she moved away. It was a cool and tranquillizing palm and he wished she would hold it there for a long time, so that he could sleep, forget—

At a recent meeting awarded the contracts for resurfacing of three of our main streets and the work will be started very shortly and this is as it should be—in fact, it should have been done two years ago. The advertisement to a city of good street—especially the entrance and exit, is worth thousands of dollars, for a tourist will always remember bad roads and streets and curse that town forever, but now that we are to have ours fixed up and by a home concern that will do it right we can smile and be happy and proud, just as you are when you get into a pair of Palm Beach Oxfords, $3.50 up.

Miller Dismissed

When Peter H. Miller, an employee of a Chillicothe store, appeared in Municipal court Tuesday he pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with giving a $20 check on the First National bank with intent to defraud R. S. Pritchard.

At the conclusion of the brief hearing, which disclosed that Miller did issue the check in question in payment for repairs to his automobile but stopped payment on the check after he obtained possession of his machine, because he claimed, the machine had not been repaired properly and the court took his view of the case, finding that there appeared no intent to defraud and dismissed the complaint. The court in dismissing the affidavit stated that the case was one for civil action rather than criminal.

MAGICAL BEAUTIFIERS FOR WOMEN

Women everywhere are trying all kinds of beautifiers, only to find that their effects are transitory. The first requisite of beauty is health. Without it the steps, big, eyes are lustreless, dark circles appear beneath them, the complexion becomes sallow, and almost invariably the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to women. There is a very inexpensive remedy for this condition in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for nearly fifty years has been relieving women from some of the worst forms of female ills. Why not let it restore you to health and beauty and the joys of living.—Advertisement.

You who use Palmolive Soap use it for beauty's sake. Be careful that you get it. There are many soaps made to deceive you. They imitate the shape and color. Names are coined to sound like Palmolive. Numerous soaps—some of them wretched soaps—are put in this guise to mislead you.

Our interests do not matter, but yours do. Your demand is for Palmolive, because of what it does. You are seeking certain proved results. And you are cheated when you get a soap which can't bring those results.

Palmolive Soap has world-wide fame because it aids complexions.

The envied results, seen everywhere, have won millions of people to it. Thus Palmolive became the world's leading toilet soap. Not merely because of olive oil—that's ages old. Not merely because of palm oil—Cleopatra used that. But because our experts found a way to give those oils unique efficiency in soap.

It is Palmolive Soap that has won beauty lovers as no other soap ever did. It is the Palmolive blend—based on 60 years of study—that brings those desired results. It is Palmolive which, by enormous production, gives you a 25-cent quality for 10 cents.

That is what won you—that is what you want. A commonplace soap without those virtues will not suit or serve you. Then be careful. Note the name carefully. Be sure you get the wrapper shown below. Don't let anybody cheat you on a thing that means so much.

Severe Wind, Rain And Electrical Storm Causes Much Damage In County

While certain sections of the county were visited by a storm, which almost assumed cyclonic proportions Tuesday afternoon other sections did not report a drop of rain having fallen. The city was drenched by a heavy shower and it was accompanied by a severe wind and electrical storm, which left considerable damage in its wake. This same storm also caused much damage in various parts of the county but passed up the West Side skirting the Ohio river, not a drop of rain falling west of the County Infirmary.

Water was so deep in the underground crossing just north of Lucasville that it blocked traffic on the Scioto Trail for several hours. At one time water stood five feet deep in the crossing and when it receded it left a foot of mud for the runarounds to splash through. Several houses were struck by lightning, and one child, a year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shump, was severely shocked and painfully burned about the forehead, when a bolt struck the Caudill home. The storm was at its worst at Lucasville and Nauvoo where large trees were uprooted, fences torn up, windows shattered, roofs lifted from houses and barns, lumber carried hundreds of feet, and much other damage caused. Telephone wires and poles were blown down and scores of lines throughout the county were out of order last night making communication, to many points difficult.

The storm was eccentric in its movement, forming apparently to the northeast of Lucasville and moving southward, striking Lucasville with all its fury, then moving southwestward passing over Rushville but hitting Nauvoo, circling around and hitting Portsmouth, skipping over New Boston, and Sciotoville and Wheelersburg, and again falling on Gephards Station.

The storm struck shortly after 2 o'clock and raged for more than a half hour there. At Nauvoo, however, it was 3 o'clock before the rain began to fall.

While Portsmouth was being drenched by the heavy shower which struck the city about 2:35, there was practically no water falling at New Boston, Sciotoville and Wheelersburg. There was also only slight rain in the vicinity of Orway and McDermott, Rushtown and Long Run.

Home Struck; Child Shocked.

The John D. Caudill home, a two-story frame, opposite the depot at Lucasville, was struck by lightning at 2:30 o'clock. The bolt hit the chimney, went down a stovepipe from the second to the first floor, jumped to an electric light wire in the southeast part of the building, followed the wire to a chandelier. In the northwest corner of the house, and leaping from the chandelier struck and knocked senseless Feril Caudill, aged 11, who was lying on a couch, crying from fear.

The little girl fell from the couch and her mother, who was in the room, revived the child by massaging her head. When the child regained consciousness she complained that her forehead was burning and she suffered considerable pain. A strip of flesh about a half inch wide and about three inches long was burned. Mrs. Caudill upon going to the upstairs room where the lightning had struck, found the stove pipe had been completely demolished and the room filled with smoke. About 4 o'clock, the brick chimney which had been struck, tottered to the ground.

Passengers of the Scioto Valley bus on the north side of the crossing transferred to the Portsmouth side via the railroad trestle overhead. By using this transfer system the transportation company was able to keep its line in operation while there were a score or more of motorists on each side of the crossing who were forced to wait until the water had subsided or to turn around and go back.

A crew of state highway men under John Doll who had been cutting weeds along side the road before the storm were soon on the scene and by 8 o'clock last night had most of the water pumped from the crossing.

Light Plant Flooded.

Water flooded the Lucasville electric light plant, along the N. & W. tracks, power was shut off and the village was in darkness all last evening. There was more than a foot of water on the floor. It had found its way into the plant from a grade at the side of which had been made in tearing down the old elevator adjoining.

On Railroad street, the homes of Wm. Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abbott were flooded. Mr. Buchanan had been able to get up one rung in his house, and Mr. and Mrs. Abbott moved some of their household goods to the home of Mrs. Ella Colegrove. The garden of Mrs. Jane Hill was inundated and water was about the house of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kimbler.

Nauvoo in Storm's Path.

The Homer Hinz, and Glen Hinz homes at City View, near Nauvoo, the J. E. Shump home located nearby, and Tom Swearingin's corn crib in the bottoms and the John Hinz barn, were all damaged by the storm which swept Nauvoo. The storm was at its fiercest along Galena Pike. Lightning struck the top of the cornice of the front porch at the Glen Hinz home and tore off the tin roof. The telephone was torn from the wall when the bolt struck the porch. Shingles were also knocked from the roof of the house.

Lightning also struck the Homer Hinz home, tearing off a section of the roof, and toppling over four porch pillars and the railing. The pillars were about ten inches in diameter. The roof was torn off John Hinz's barn, formerly the old cooperage shop of the Davis' distillery over fifty years old and one of the village landmarks.

Two large windows and the plate glass in the front door at the J. E.

Shump home were shattered as were several windows in other houses along Galena Pike.

The rubberoid roof on the Tom Swearingin corn crib in the bottoms was lifted bodily by the wind and blown to the O. B. Stunt's yard on the hillside, a distance of several hundred feet.

The roof of the Norman Kitchen home, Nauvoo, was struck and the telephone was torn from the wall. Many large trees were uprooted both at Lucasville and Nauvoo and many fruit trees were damaged. Branches were torn from many trees in Lucasville and those along Galena Pike in the vicinity of Nauvoo.

Rail Unions

rights of laboring men to which congress has declared them entitled." But there is not power to make the Pennsylvania obey the labor board except public sentiment and as for that there is every indication that the officials of that railroad believe they are doing an immeasurable service in squelching unionism of the national variety.

This conspicuous revelation of the impotence of the United States Railroad Labor Board to enforce its decisions comes on the eve of President Harding's western trip when he is expected to discuss the transportation problem in detail. He has already, in one address to congress alluded to the attitude of certain railroad executives and it is an open secret that practically the entire administration here believes the Pennsylvania Railroad is thoughtlessly adding to the national problems by defying the spirit of the transportation act insofar as it relates to powers of the United States Railroad Labor Board. Congress created that tribunal as a means of preventing strikes. It was thought that when the board would issue its decisions both parties to the controversy would have sufficient respect for an institution created by the congress of the United States and approved by the chief executive as to give it moral support.

The U. S. Railroad Labor Board didn't mince words in its denunciation of the tactics of the Pennsylvania declaring that the latter "while professing its acceptance and observance of this principle of employees' representation, the carrier has set up a system which throttles the majority and establishes the representation of a coerced and subservient minority."

This language is descriptive of the so-called "shop union" system whereby the formation of unions through leaders more or less friendly to the employers themselves. These unions were recognized and representatives of the workmen to be employed of the Pennsylvania, which meant, of course, that if they became too active in behalf of the workmen they might be in danger of losing their jobs and if they lost their jobs they couldn't represent the workmen any longer. The American Federation of Labor contends that a union representative must be free from coercion and must be paid by the dues of his fellow workmen so that his own job isn't in jeopardy when he argues vehemently with an employer. This in effect is the view now taken by the United States Labor Board, which points out that workmen have a right to select their own representatives and that employers should deal with the representatives chosen by the workmen.

Pennsy Refuses To Abide By U. S. Railroad Labor Board Rules
The whole trouble has come over the question of whether the representatives chosen by the members of the American Federation of Labor working of the Pennsylvania were elected by a majority of the workmen but the Pennsylvania has declined to count certain ballots cast by the men or to abide by the rules for a fair election set up by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The significance of the rebuke given the Pennsylvania that other railroads in the United States have been pressed to follow the lead of the big Eastern system. Undoubtedly the attitude of the Pennsylvania will become a matter of discussion in the next congress, unless there is a complete reversal of Pennsylvania policy before next autumn, and it would not be surprising if the demand for teeth in the transportation law now provided from labor sources as a means of compelling railway employers to abide by the spirit of the act, should be made an issue. Usually employing interests have sought to put more enforcing power in labor statutes so as to prevent strikes but labor leaders are beginning to wonder if what the shoe on the other foot public opinion will be as drastic with an offending employer as it has been in the past with the offending employees. Mr. Harding probably will deal with certain phases of this controversy on his western trip.

Machines Collide

A car driven by William Zottman of Offshore street was forced into the yard of the Lewis Matthews home, on the southwest corner of Eighth and John streets yesterday afternoon about 4:30, when it collided with a machine driven by Clyde Lenegar, living at Twelfth and Waldo streets. Zottman was driving south on John street and Lenegar east on Eighth when the collision occurred.

Lenegar sustained a slight scalp wound on the left side of his head as a result of being thrown against a curtain button on his car. Lenegar's car was damaged more than the Zottman machine.

Coates Buys In Toledo Interurban Line At $600,000

TOLEDO, OHIO, June 20.—Morton Seely, Toledo-Edison Company, attorney, bought in the Toledo and Western Interurban line in the name of Frank B. Coates, of the Coates L. Dougherty & Co., at the receivers' sale in Sylvania this afternoon. Seely's bid of $600,000 took the property.

The property has for the last several years been operated by Receivers Joe Yager, Al Schwartz and Harry Dunn.

Market News

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 20—Prices displayed a firm tone at the opening of today's stock market. Buying operations were resumed in United States Steel common, Studebaker, Consolidated Gas and Kelly-Springfield Tires, all of which opened fractionally higher. There were a few heavy spots, Pennsylvania Coal and Coke yielding slightly to a new low record for the year.

Initial strength was well maintained. Baldwin, Kelly-Springfield, Houston and Phillips Petroleum extending their gains to a point or more. The demand was most effective in the oils, motors, equipments, steels and rails. Some of the copper were heavy with Corro de Pisco opened a point. Foreign exchanges advanced irregularly.

Steadily rising prices characterized the morning trading. Motors were particularly strong on reports of enlarged earnings and expectations of higher dividends. The rapidity of the advance in certain oil, equipment and sugar issues indicated short selling had been overdone. American Can, General Electric, Baldwin, Corn Products, Houston, Oil, Muck Truck and Stromberg Carburator sold two to three points above yesterday's final figures. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

Announcement of another stock exchange failure following yesterday's authoritative report that no member was in difficulty precipitated a flood of liquidating orders by frisk investors. Speculators for the decline seized the opportunity also for aggressive short selling. The market had shown considerable strength earlier in the day, prices rising one to three points on the belief that forced liquidation had been completed. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

The closing was weak.

And Provisions

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, June 20—With improved prospects of export business, wheat averaged higher in price today during the early transactions. European purchases on a large scale yesterday and the day before made dealers hopeful that export demand for United States wheat would continue especially as Canadian wheat is at a premium. Extreme cold weather in France and Britain tended also to give an advance to the bulk of the market here.

Opening prices ranged from 1 1/2 decline to 1/2 advance with July 1.07 1/2 to 1.07 3/4 and Sept. 1.06 1/2 to 1.06 3/4. They were followed by a slight general advance and then by a rise to well above yesterday's finish.

Covering by shorts gave a lift to the corn market. After opening unchanged to 1/2 higher, July 72 1/2 to 83, prices scored a material advance all around.

Wheat closed weak, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 net lower with July 1.03 1/2 to 1.04 and Sept. 1.03 1/2 to 1.04.

Oats were firmer with corn starting a shade lower with a later advance July 40 1/2 to 40 3/4 and later making a general gain.

Provisions reflected the firmness of hog values.

The close was unsettled 1/4 to 3/4 net lower with July 52 1/4 to 52 3/4.

Machine Guns Used On Rum Runners

(Copyright, 1923, by The U. P.)
BOARD REVENUE CUTTER
MANHATTAN, Off Jersey Coast,
June 20.—(By the United Press)
With bursts of machine gun fire, the coast guard cutter Manhattan at ten p. m. Tuesday, frustrated an attempt to run the whiskey blockade twelve miles off New York harbor.
The Manhattan, with its skipper on the bridge peering through the darkness, had been cruising for an hour in search of the rum fleet when it came on the Norwegian steamer Bru.
Transferring cases of booze to a speed boat.
Through his night glasses, the lookout sighted the steamer dead ahead.
The Manhattan's engines were shut off and she drifted closer and closer to the smuggler. They failed to observe the Manhattan until it had approached within 20 yards. The lights of the Bru snapped off. Immediately the Manhattan dashed straight ahead, the whistle tooting "Halt". The dark hulk of the speed boat darted away from the Bru and then dodged left and right, as if to confuse the cutter's pursuit. The captain of the Manhattan fired the machine guns across the bow of the speed boat which was now plainly visible in the path of moonlight upon the darkening waters. Thereupon the speed boat made off at a fast clip. The Manhattan continued firing, wishing to frighten the smugglers into surrendering. For fifteen minutes the chase continued while the bootleggers cast their rich cargo of liquor into the sea. There was a continual flash of machine gun fire.
By its tremendous speed the smuggler at last distanced the Manhattan and disappeared heading in for the New Jersey shore.

Complaints received by the city

Bane Granted Divorce
On the ground of willful absence,
John Phillip Bane, 618 Second street, local street car conductor, was granted a decree by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Wednesday divorcing him from Louella Bane, now living at Milan, Indiana, who he married in Cincinnati about ten years ago. The plaintiff told the court that the defendant has for many years been addicted to the morphine and drug habit and declared that because she neglected to give their two children a daughter, aged 8 years, and an adopted son, aged 13 years, proper care and attention after she left him in July, 1918, he was compelled to go to Indiana and bring them to Portsmouth in order that they might be properly cared for and educated. In granting the decree the court granted Bane the exclusive custody and care of the two children. He was represented by Attorneys Miller and Seal.

Wife Granted Divorce

Lulu Baker, Minford, was divorced from McKinley Baker, by Judge Thomas following a hearing in Common Pleas court Wednesday, granting the decree on the ground of neglect and giving the plaintiff the custody of their only child, now aged two years.

The couple were married in 1920 and separated in October, 1922. The defendant is now confined in the county jail under sentence from Municipal court. The wife was represented by Attorney W. J. Hostetter.

Brown Given Divorce

Walter Brown, 2928 Walnut street, was divorced from Bettie Brown by Judge Thomas, following a hearing in Common Pleas court Wednesday. The couple were married on Jan. 1, 1923, and the decree was granted on the ground of infidelity, after Brown testified that the wife soon after their marriage associated with a man named Virgil Flora for immoral purposes and finally on Jan. 26 left the city with the other man. Attorneys Miller & Seal appeared for the plaintiff.

Wife Seeks Divorce

Mary Rogers, 3965 Rhodes avenue,
New Boston, charges neglect, cruelty and infidelity in her suit for divorce and placing with custody of their one minor child, now three years old, instituted in Common Pleas court Wednesday against Bernard Rogers, now living in Mayesville, where she married him in September, 1918.

In her petition filed through Attorney T. C. Beatty, the plaintiff says that Rogers has failed to support her and their child and that during the time she lived with him he constantly cursed and abused her, besides, she claims he used liquor to excess and associated with immoral women. She further complains that the defendant abandoned her and their child eleven times during their married life and declares that his misconduct and mistreatment toward her has been so brutal and unjust that she can no longer live with him as his wife.

McCormell Seeks Damages

An accident which occurred at the railroad crossing on Eleventh street, just north of the N. & W. passenger station, late on the night of January 20th last, was made the basis of an action filed in Common Pleas court Wednesday by William H. McCormell, well known colored grocer, 1127 Key-lock street, who is demanding $10,000 damages from the Norfolk and Western Railway company for personal injuries which he claims to have sustained when his automobile was struck by a locomotive at that point.
In his petition filed through Attorneys Miller and Seal the plaintiff says that the defendant was at the time he was hit, operating his locomotive in a negligent and unlawful manner and at a high and dangerous rate of speed, without sounding a whistle, bell or giving other notice of its approach and without keeping a lookout for vehicles. McCormell claims that he was pushed and dragged with the automobile over the rails, cross-ties and ballast for a great distance, lacerating his face and head, lacerating several of his teeth and bruising and straining the ligaments and muscles of his back. He declares that his injuries were caused without fault on his part and alleges that the accident resulted solely from the negligence and carelessness of the defendant in operating his locomotive.

nesday, against Horns and Edward estate of J. P. Purdum, deceased, and the latter's heirs-at-law through Attorneys McLoughlin and Staker, saying that they are the beneficiaries or residue of a trust of a certain trust deed executed October 21, 1920, by Horns and his wife, conveying to Purdum lot No. 7, Wertz addition to the village of Wheelersburg for the purpose of providing payment of certain claims held by plaintiffs against Horns.

may be required to set up any claim or interest they may have in the premises in question and that the property be sold and the proceeds

Local Woman Hurt When Man
Is Killed In Auto Accident

William Henry Ferguson, aged 20, a well known C. and O. engineer, running between Russell, Ky. and Cincinnati, was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 when he suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident which occurred four miles southeast of Ashland.

Mrs. Myrtle Morris of 2222 Vinton avenue, this city, who was in the machine with Ferguson, was injured, but not seriously as no bones were broken and she did not suffer any internal injuries according to a statement made at her home this afternoon.

"I did not learn that my wife had been away until I returned from my work in the plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation last night," A. Morris, husband of the woman told a Times man today.

"At 7:30 my wife was brought home in another machine, friends driving her through from Ashland. I was told today that Ferguson had been a 'friend of son,' who had been a 'friend of son,' my family for sometime, was in the city Tuesday and did not leave for Ashland until after 1 o'clock yesterday. I was told that Ferguson and my wife rode around the city a while before they started to go to Ashland."

Asked how long he had known Ferguson, Morris said for several years but that he never knew of his wife taking a machine ride with him. "My wife is suffering considerable pain and I have not questioned her very much about an affair, which I naturally regret very much," he said.

"The accident occurred on a road four miles southeast of Ashland. Ferguson was thought to have been enroute to his home at Camden, near Huntington, when he met death. The scene of the accident was on a curve known as Horsehoe Bend. G. B.

Gannin, of Grayson, Ky., was an eye witness to the accident. He was in another machine about 200 yards from the hit and says that it looked as if the man applied the brakes suddenly causing the machine to turn at right angles and then flip over. He was the first to reach the wrecked car and after assisting the young woman out, got Ferguson's body.

Ferguson, who has been married, leaves his parents and three brothers,
all of near Huntington.

The following account of the

ASHLAND, KY., June 20.—Police stances leading to the death under an overturned automobile late yesterday of W. H. Ferguson, a Chesapeake and Ohio railroad engineer at a dangerous curve on the Midland Trail, four miles from Ashland.

The chimes of Holy Redeemer Church pealed forth in beautiful tones Tuesday morning, heralding to its sanctuary Miss Wilhelmina Ruth Justice and Mr. Louis H. Schaefer, who were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, in the presence of a large circle of friends, by the Reverend J. E. McGuirk, the officiating pastor of Holy Redeemer Church.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a profusion of roses and majestic palms being used throughout the sanctuary. At half after seven, the organist, Mr. C. E. Kean, played Schubert's wedding march, and to its lovely strains the bridal party slowly wended its way to the altar, the procession being led by Miss Dorothy M. Haag, who was charming in her costume of rose and gold Gros de Londre, which was made with basque effect. Her large picture hat was made of the same material, slippers of gold cloth completing her costume. Miss Haag carried a shower bouquet of red roses. She was immediately followed by Miss Marian Dean of Detroit, a cousin of the groom, and Miss Gertrude Walters. These young ladies were lovely in their twin costumes of lilac Gros de Londre, with hats to match, their slippers being white kid. Each carried a large bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Next in line were the maid of honor, Miss Evangeline Justice and the bridegroom's best man, Mr. Howard L. Justice, sister and brother of the bride. Miss Justice was very prettily attired in a ruffled frock of blue and silver Gros de Londre with picture hat to match, slippers of silver cloth completing her costume. Miss Justice carried a shower bouquet of pink roses with snap dragons. The dainty little flower girl, Miss Evelyn Schwanberger, carried a large French basket of pink roses. She led the way for the beautiful bride, who entered in a striking brunette, was never more lovely than in her wedding gown of crepe meteor, which was made in simple lines, in draped effect and trimmed with ornaments of pearls and crystals. Her filmy veil was made with dainty tulle puffs on either side of the head and was held in place by a coronet of pearls and crystal beads, which were fashioned to carry out the same design as the ornaments on her wedding gown. The veil was made with a trim and finished with narrow tucks, which gave it a very pretty shadowy effect. Her slippers were of white broadened satin and her only ornament was a circlet pin of white gold inlaid with pearls, set with a large diamond, her gift from the groom.

Mr. Richard Haag and Mr. Charles Emmett served as ushers.

During the ceremony Mr. Kean played beautifully, appropriate music and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt sang "O Promise Me," "Because" and "Ave Maria."

To groom's gift to his best man was a gold pocket comb, and to the ushers gold tie clasps.

The bride's gift to her maid of honor was a hand engraved silver compact, and to her bridesmaids silver coin purses.

After the solemn nuptial Mass, the party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's recessional and went to the Mary Louise, where a breakfast was served. In the center of the bride's table was the three tier wedding cake surrounded by a diminutive bride party. When it was cut, the ring was found by Miss Marian Dean, the thimble by Richard Haag, the button by Mrs. Louise Weichens, while the bride herself found the dime.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Justice, the bride's parents; Mrs. Ann Schaefer, the mother of the groom; Mr. Noel Schaefer, brother of the groom; Mr. Raymond Justice, brother of the bride; Reverend J. E. McGuirk, Reverend T. A. Guebel, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown and children, Ferdinand and Anna Louise; Mrs. Louise Weichens and daughter, Clara, aunt and cousin of the groom; Mrs. Mary Crouse, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. A. F. Metz and daughter, Annalou; Mrs. D. Davis and daughter, Thelma; Phil Schwanberger, aunt of the bride; Misses Elizabeth Orlett, Norlene Angustin, Virginia McMahon, Hazel Crabban, Lorena Brunner, Edith Walters, Mary Martha McMahon, Louise Holberg, Charlotte Scheffler and Gladys Crabban, Mr. and Mrs. J. All the children and all but two of the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Centre gathered at their home in Lucasville, Tuesday, to celebrate the fifty-seventh birthday anniversary of Mrs. Centre.

At noon an elegant dinner was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Centre, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon and two children, Anna Mabel and Joseph, Mrs. James Snavely and two children, Beulah and Virginia, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benner and son Hersel of George, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Gentry and Mrs. Hicks Gentry of Columbus. The mother was the recipient of many presents from her children. A photographer was brought from Portsmouth and made a family group picture to commemorate the happy occasion.

LUQUE'S MASTERLY PITCHING TOO MUCH FOR BROOKLYN

CINCINNATI, O., June 19.—Luque and Grimes indulged in a tense pitchers' battle Tuesday, the Reds winning out over Brooklyn 1 to 0, in the last half of the eleventh inning on hits by Roush and Pinelli, a wild throw by Johnston and Hargrave's sacrifice fly. It was Luque's ninth victory out of ten starts this season and he has not been scored on in the last 25 innings. How the game was played:

First Inning
Neils beat the zephyrs, which caused worryment—that old superstition about the pitcher who fans the first man always loses. Caveney threw Johnston's bounce wild to first. Wheat hit into right. On Fournier's bounce, Johnston was nipped. Luque to Pinelli. Luque then gave an intentional pass to Tom Griffith. Taylor forced Tom. Caveney to Bohne. No runs, one hit, one error.

Second Inning
Grimes broke down Burns' hot liner and, clucked it to first. Dautbert walked and stole second as Bohne fanned. Roush drew four wide ones. So did Duncan. Sacks full and all up to Pinelli. His best was a pop to Griffith. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
McCarren whiffed. Olson bounced to Luque. Grimes cut three holes in the weather. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Caveney accepted a pass. Hargrave bumped straight into a double play. Olson to Johnston to Fournier. Luque placed a hit over third. Burns forced Luque, Olson to Johnston. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Neils breezed. Johnston skied to Duncan. Wheat rolled to Bohne. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning
Dautbert bounced to Grimes. Wheat harvested Bohne's fly. Roush doubled to left. Wheat losing the ball among his feet. Duncan beat a bounce toward first. When Duncan broke for second, Roush was neatly tripped. Taylor to Grimes to McCarren to Taylor. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning
Fournier out. Dautbert to Luque. Griffith floated to Bohne. Taylor floated to Burns. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning
Pinelli drove to Griffith. Caveney lined to Neils. Hargrave bounded to Johnston. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning
McCarren singled off short. Olson sacrificed. Luque to Dautbert. Burns grounded Grimes long sailer. Bohne threw out Neils. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Tenth Inning
Luque received a great ovation, after which he bounded to Olson. Burns was safe for Johnston and Fournier. Dautbert feebly bunted to Grimes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eleventh Inning
Johnston bounded to Pinelli. Wheat

—it's O.K.

A beverage that in taste and color resembles a sweet red wine—fragrant, sparkling and refreshing—at all fountains or by the case from your grocer.

Delicious as a flavor for frozen ice and other desserts or mixed with fresh fruits, a delightful summer punch.

I'M GOING TO FINISH TOMMY IN THE QUICKEST TIME I CAN

—JACK DEMPSEY

(By Jack Dempsey, Heavyweight Champion of the World)
(Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
GREAT FALLS, MONT., June 20.—I have been doing a lot of thinking concerning Tommy Gibbons of late. Inasmuch as he's never been knocked out, and never been hit hard enough to be sent to the floor, he has displayed no public weakness. If he had, then my program of beating him would be rather easy. On July 4th, I'd simply drive away at the spot where Tommy wouldn't be able to take them. That's what I did with Carpenter. I knew he didn't like 'em in the body. So I softened him up around there for a few rounds and, when he was sufficiently softened, I put over the finishing punches to the jaw. But Tommy—well, he's something of a puzzle. No way of figuring him out exactly. Just the same I guess I'll start right off and see how well he can take 'em in the tummy district. I never knew anybody who really liked them there, when they carried a little zip back of them. Fulton didn't. Moritz didn't. Willard didn't. Miske didn't. Brennan didn't—none of them did.

And maybe Tommy won't either. Then again he may have one of those rubber stomachs—you know, the kind that punches right back at the boxer. If I find that to be true after a round or two of effort I guess I'll serve notice on Tommy that the attack will be shifted and that I'll begin trying out that jaw of his. I'm going out to finish Tommy in the quickest time I can. A decision victory won't satisfy me. That isn't real championship stuff. To stop every man I face—or be stopped in the effort—that's my little motto. Watch it work out on the Fourth.

Kiwanians Will Build Girl Scouts Camp

Thanks to the generosity of Dr. W. P. Tromper and the liberality of the local Kiwanis club, the Girl Scouts of Portsmouth will have a splendidly furnished summer camp of their own. It is to be located on an 125 acre tract of land owned by Dr. Tromper and located on Pond Run, directly south of the country club site. The use of the land was donated by Dr. Tromper and at a meeting of the Kiwanis club, Wednesday at the Laureate house, more than enough money was raised to erect and equip all necessary buildings.

It is thought the cost to the Kiwanians will be in the neighborhood of $2,000, and the sum was raised within ten minutes or just long enough to complete the roll call. It was inspiring, indeed, the way the members climbed aboard and their generosity has made the camp a sure thing.

In fact, the committee was ordered to begin the hauling of material to the site this afternoon and it is hoped to have the camp completed within the shortest possible time, thus assuring the girl scouts a wonderful place to hold their summer outings. The camp will be a permanent affair and it is hoped that it will rival any similar camp in the country within a few years. The buildings will be well constructed, weather proof, while all improvements will be made for years to come. The Girl Scouts will, no doubt, be delighted when they learn of the action taken by the Kiwanians, for it will mean a realization of their dream for a summer camp of their own.

Dr. Tromper and his good wife have donated the land for the purpose outlined above and papers have already been drawn up and signed. While there was considerable enthusiasm manifested in the raising of the necessary funds for the camp, there was plenty of pep left for the trip to Chillicothe next Tuesday, when the Chillicothe Kiwanians will entertain several clubs at the Convention. More than forty local menbers agreed to go, many of whom will be accompanied by their families. On next Wednesday the local club will make a tour of the fire engine stations, with a chicken dinner served at the Seventh street house at the close. The club will be chaperoned by St. Straus and Leo Krieger, who have served so capably as the program committee for the past three months. A new program committee with Ora Ricker as chairman was named for the next three months. An invitation extended by Scoutmaster Henderson to hold an outing at the Boy Scout camp was accepted, and referred to the program committee to make arrangements.

Bergdoll Freed--Rearrested

LEAVENWORTH, KAN., June 20.—(By the United Press)—Erwin Bergdoll, brother of the wealthy slacker, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, was rearrested, charged with conspiracy to evade the draft, as he stepped from the penitentiary today. Bergdoll, plainly showing the effects of long confinement, was released from prison shortly before twelve o'clock after serving three years for evading the draft laws. A United States marshal armed with a warrant, charging conspiracy with three men in Philadelphia, to escape the war draft laws, was waiting as the big gates to the prison grounds swung open and Bergdoll walked to temporary freedom.

Potters Call Off Strike

TRENTON, N. J., June 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The executive board of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters today called off the eight months strike of members in the sanitary trade. About 1,500 men in this city and vicinity are affected. The strike was called when the workers refused to take a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Gibbons Means Business, Will Box More And Will Put More Time On Road Work

By TOM GIBBONS,
Challenger for the Heavyweight Championship.
(Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SHELBY, MONT., June 20.—Al though I am entirely satisfied that I have done everything possible to bring myself to fighting condition, it is my intention to increase rather than reduce the amount of my daily workouts as the time for the Dempsey bout approaches. Starting today I will box twelve rounds instead of eight and will increase my road work from four to six miles, the idea being to top off my speed with strength and endurance.

The change in program may come as a surprise to those who know what my condition is, but I think I am justified in making the switch. I have gained all the speed I need now and feel that any additional effort I make in this direction will only serve to take the edge off my form. However, I have come to look for criticism of my methods, even though my record would seem to indicate that they are sound enough. Just the other day, I overheard a man, well posted in ring affairs, declare that I was making a mistake in not going after my training partners harder.

He said that a knockout or two in the daily camp bouts would not only get my hand in for Dempsey but would increase my confidence. Let me say now that my confidence and morale could not be better and I see no reason why I should be overly rough with a lot of sparring partners, who are my friends and pals. There is only one place to do your fighting and that is in the ring on the day of the bout.

Another criticism I have heard is that the covered ring I work in is so dark that it prevents me from judging distance properly. All I can say to that is that no man has seen me miss many punches, and I want to add that my partners are all fast, shifty steps.

This is particularly true of Jimmy Delaney, the light-heavyweight. Jimmy is as clever as they come and both of us enjoy every minute of our sessions in the ring. We have worked out together so much that there is little we don't know about one another, and consequently I often find it hard to lay a glove on him. He has afforded me the best target practice available and all I can say is that I should be able to reach Dempsey after stepping around for weeks with Jimmy. I understand that he has been matched with Jack Burke as a preliminary to the July fourth engagement, and if I was a betting man, my money would not ride with the latter.

Another light-heavyweight, of whom I expect much, is George Munley, the Denver boy. Munley has joined my troupe, and after he becomes acclimated will be a valuable addition, I am sure.

I have been asked many times to give an outline of my plan of battle against the champion and as many times I have declined to do so. In the first place, I do not have any preconceived plan when I enter the ring and in the second, I hardly think I would be justified in tipping my hand so that Jack would know what to expect. Of course, all fighters have a general idea of how they intend to fight but as a rule things happen so quickly in the ring that it is impossible to forecast just what you will do under certain conditions. The most I can hope for is to meet emergencies as they arise.

Dempsey In Perfect Shape

GREAT FALLS, MONT., June 20.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, starts his final fortnight of training for the defense of the title against Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Mont., July 4, in as perfect shape as he ever was two weeks before a fight. Dempsey, during the cold drizzling rains of the past few days, picked up the cold which has been apparent in his breathing. Manager Kearns feels that Dempsey will be able to shake it off within a couple of days. Dempsey intends to remain here until the day of the fight, leaving for Shelby on a special car already tendered him.

Toledo Men Win Prelim At Inverness

TOLEDO, O., June 19.—Alec Cunningham, professional, and his teammate, Parker Campbell, both of the Country Club of Toledo, today won the Ohio amateur pre-championship at Inverness Club when they turned in a best ball card of 71 for the eighteen holes.

The amateur pre-championship was staged as a curtain-raiser to the twentieth annual championship of the Ohio Amateur Golf Association, which gets under way at Inverness tomorrow with a qualifying round of 36 holes. There are more than 175 entrants for the championship. It was announced tonight.

Ellsworth Augustus, amateur, and Bonnie Wray, professional, of Cleveland, and Joe K. Role, amateur, of Toledo, were also in the field, finishing second and third, respectively, with cards of 72 and 73 for the pro amateur affair.

Blair Topping Off Training For Delaney

"Big" Blair, who showed that he still has his old time punch and staying ability by the way he mixed it up with Gil Elchoff in the ring here Monday night, is putting the finishing touches to his training for his bout with Joe Delaney, of Dayton, Friday night. Delaney is recognized as one of the best in his class, and Blair will face a worthy opponent.

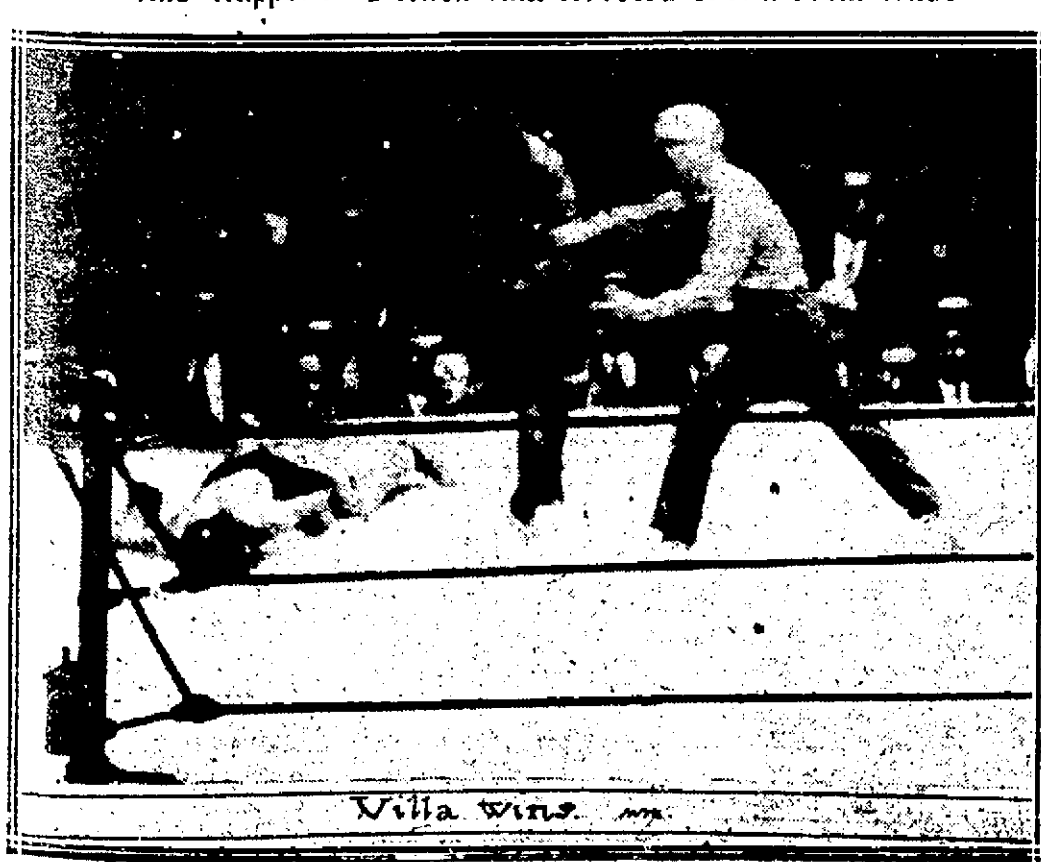

Chillicothe To Have Boxing Show On Fourth

CHILICOTHE, O., June 20.—In the self-same ring wherein Johnny Kibbans was wont to strut his stuff during the war days of Camp Sherman, while stationed at the local cantonment as army boxing instructor, Johnny Karry, World War hero, of Cleveland, and Wally Hinkle, welterweight challenger for the crown of Mickey Walker, will show their bistic wares here on Independence Day. The bout will be held under the auspices of the Ross County Post, American Legion.

Workmen today began the task of firing out some 3,000 anxious fight fans with seats, for it is estimated that this number will flock to the Old Metropolis to view the fight—the stellar event on Ohio's sports program for the day.

The hour, which far overshadows anything ever held here in recent years, will be staged at Recreation Field—a community ball lot—in the afternoon. When the question of building a ring popped up it was recalled that in adressed spot behind the grandstand at Tech Field, Camp Sherman's athletic arena, the old ring in which so many soldier fights had been pulled off, lay wasting away. So it was recalled to duty, but at a new station. The ring was moved to Recreation Field and set up today.

THE ENGLISH WAY

SOME people in this country are very fond of aping English ways; it is a matter of general observation that the Harding administration is strong in its sympathy with Britain's policies, in truth, has tied up close to "the mother country"—save the mark—in world affairs.

There are some things, however, in which America departs far from English lines. There's the matter of ships for instance. In the war we seized one of Germany's monster liners and are just now putting her back into condition for service, her crew having sorely scuttled her while she was lying in New York port. Just to see whether her wheels will go 'round the government, which is going to run her, has planned a trip to Cuba, furnishing a joy ride to six hundred more or less distinguished citizens. The course will cover 3,000 miles and will cost, so Chairman Lasker, of Harding's shipping board, announces, $130,000, the guests entailing an expense of $20,000. Other experts say the voyage will cost half a million. The actual bill will, probably, turn up some where between the two estimates. For if Mr. Lasker has figured no closer on operating costs than he has on that of entertainment he hasn't got the first half big enough. It will take some time to sail to Cuba and return, allowing for stops at Havana and Bermudas, which are likely. You can't feed a person six times a day on these ships, for nothing; nor can you furnish a passenger service for nothing. On these same vessels there is one and a half attendant for each passenger. But what's the odds? The people pay the bill and those who govern us must be amused.

That's the American way.

Now, it so happens that during the war England seized two vessels of the same line and of about the same majestic proportions as the one seized here. The last of the two was put in service about six months ago. Her test consisted of less than a two days' run out to sea, only enough to test her machinery and to see that everything was running smoothly. The trial was not made an occasion for giving everybody in the country that might be useful to the administration in power a free ride. That is the English way.

THE OTHER WAY 'ROUND

SENATOR FESS is in favor of an amendment that will limit the supreme court to declaring any matter unconstitutional where all the members agree on the point.

His argument that if less than a unanimous court can set aside legislative enactment, then in case of a close division one man can determine the whole issue.

A profound argument, but it cuts the other way equally as well. All legislatures and congresses are not composed of such learned lawgivers as is the noted professor-preacher-statesman. Consequently they sometimes misinterpret their own powers; not infrequently they perpetrate some utterly lawless law. In this latter case and event, one man, if the court were required to be as one, could then hold decree that an inhectic act was constitutional.

Better leave the situation just as it is, professor. The courts sometimes err, but there is this difference to be noted between the men that are chosen to the courts and those that are chosen to the legislatures. Many of the former, though they do happen to be dullards, turn out to be pretty sound judges, while often elect an intelligent citizen legislator and he too frequently becomes a dampfool, anyway commits himself to dampfool legislation.

Generally speaking this country would be in a horrible situation if the courts did so frequently stand between it and the legislatures, whose second name is damnation.

Oh, no, President Harding isn't going to swing the circle as urge to his candidacy for a second term, but, note, those close to him are whispering that he will avoid certain topics until he finds whether or not the necessities of his campaign demand discussion of them. Meantime he will wink the other eye and let it go at that.

Except for the coolness left in its wake Portsmouth could just as well and willingly spared the brisk shower of yesterday to some other part of the county.

The cablegram tells us thousands are fleeing before the outbreak of Mt. Etna. Waste of words. We'd do some running under such an urge ourself.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 20—They took us to a Rotary Club luncheon today. The guest of honor was Charles M. Schwab. He had with him Thayer, a banker from New York. Thayer is the type of banker I imagine can say "No" with a click. Mr. Schwab seemed very fond of him. Still, no banker could say "No" to Schwab. I sat next to Eddie Rickenbacker, hero of a hundred thrills. Eddie has much of that intangible something known as "personal magnetism." He made an earnest speech and when he spoke of standing at the graves in France recently of those who had been with him when he was "America's ace," he rose to heights of true eloquence. He is not, perhaps, college educated, as we know the term, but he is tremendously sincere.

I wondered why they parked the writers and editors across the table from Mr. Schwab and the coterie of bankers. At times we show great self-restraint. I don't think one of us would have told him a hard luck story—at least until after lunch.

Meredith Nicholson introduced Howard Kyrle, Long and myself. He explained that Howard and Long would not speak but would, as they say on the stage, "take a bow." Each, as native Hoosiers who have made their way, got a great reception.

In explaining that Howard and Long would not speak I wondered what he expected me to do. And about that time I began to break out in a gentle cold sweat. Kyrle was next introduced and told some of his inimitable stories that have made him famous as the author of "Cappy Ricks."

Nicholson next introduced me, touching upon my manner of personal dress which is neither neat nor gaudy—just loud. With my knees castanet and I stood up and mumbled something and sat down, in utter confusion, almost missing the chair.

It was my first visit to a Rotary luncheon. I believe Sinclair Lewis has subjected them to much unjust "spoofing" in his Rabbit. "It was as an intelligent body of men as I have ever seen. Each calls the other by first name. They have a high sense of civic pride and are splendid hosts. It is not difficult to see how such an organization is of inestimable benefit to any ambitious community."

Tonight we started out on the "great adventure"—the chicken dinner. Our appetites had been whetted by a long automobile ride around Indianapolis—a city of very few crowded apartments but many homes and spacious lawns.

I saw many billboards advertising products named "James Whitcomb Riley" this and that. The Riley library is one of the nest I ever saw. We also saw Booth Tarkington's home.

The chicken dinner was served in a little cottage about a half hour's ride from the hotel. There was one large table, and, praise to our host, all the food was out in full view for guests to reach for. I developed a boarding-house-teach years ago and was in good form.

It was real fried chicken—also mashed potatoes, cream gravy, sweet potatoes, succotash, cottage cheese, cold slaw, hot biscuits, all manner of home-made preserves, corn, string beans, steaming coffee and cake. There was a home talent negro jazz band and one member was just as funny as Bert Williams. Afterward we told stories, danced and walked about among the tall sycamores.

About midnight we started back for town, passing the Motor Speedway. Miles of cars—cars from every state of the union—were waiting outside the gates to be in "at the death" on the morrow. Most of the occupants of the cars were sound asleep. (Copyright 1923, By The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

THE TRACTOR

By Berton Braley

AM not a thing of beauty or of charm,
I am ugly, I am noisy, but I'm strong.
I am built for heavy duty on the farm
And can do heavy duty right along.

I can yank a bunch of gang-plows through the sod,
I can pull a dozen binders through the wheat;
If I labor you are needing, plowing, harvesting or seeding,
Give me gas and put a driver on my seat!

AM not the sort of thing that artists paint,
I don't add much pretty color to the scene.
And you couldn't call me picturesque or quaint
And I smell of oil and grease and gasoline.

I am clumsy, but I'm tireless in my might,
And I'm busier than all the bees that buzz.
And I have more vital force than a score or two of horses,
So I reckon handsome is as handsome does!

IT is mine to help the farmer at his work,
I'm a giant—at your service, here and now!
Who will save you from the weariness and irk
And the sweat that blinds the eyes and beads the brow?

I am ugly, but I'm willing and I'm strong
With an endless store of energy at hand;
Want a task done? I can do it, give me gas and steer me to it,
I'm the slave of modern progress on the job.

"Bon soir, ma cherie, ou allez vous?"
"Paint it with iodine and mark him dirt."
"Son fairr Ann."
"Heaven, Hell or Hoboken by Christmas."
"Hink-dink, parlez vous."
"If I ever get out of this man's army."
"Who won the war?"
"There's a long, long trail a-winding."
"When do we go home?"
"We've paid our debt to La Fayette—who the heck do we owe now?"
"When the cruel war is over."
"Say 'ah-h' and sign here."
"Let's eat."

A Grave Mistake
"Hello! I want to order a box for tomorrow."
"What size?"
"There will be six of us in the party."
"But they only come in single sizes."
"We'll have to have it made special."
"Is this the Lagoon?"
"No, this is the undertaker."

Discernment

The Italian Senate's unanimous vote of confidence in Mussolini is somewhat reminiscent of an old story:
